Will the Jater and the princes resolve their differences and conquer their biggest threats?

Blood of Fallen Crowns by Zhu Hsia is a rich, epic fantasy great for fans of A Thirst of Vengeance, A Cry of Honor and A Land of Fire

In Blood of Fallen Crowns: Blade of Vengeance, a KongPub novel, Jater is Captain of the Guards in the city of Dundeen. He may be very young, but he's also very capable, and he loves his position. However, he's been having trouble relating to the older warriors around him, dreaming of glorious battles and fame amongst the warriors. Jater longs to fight in a real war, despite the fact that his kingdom has not seen war in over a thousand years. One night, everything changes when two half-dead Princes are brought to his healing houses, and the men discover that friendship is often one of the best methods of healing a broken spirit.

Young Prince Frances faces a long period of mental, emotional, and physical healing after a disastrous confrontation. Prince Lance is facing a similar problem and also in need of healing. The human and his Elven friend each travel to the Elven city of Dundeen, only to discover that you can never really run from your problems""they follow you wherever you go. Many challenges await the young men as they go through the healing process, but they also discover true friendship and build relationships with new friends along the way. Will the Princes be ready to meet their destiny when the choice is made to take the throne from their abusive King-fathers? Will they live through the epic battles?

Join Frances, Lance, and Jater as they develop friendships and learn to resolve personality flaws in order to become stronger men. Learn that sometimes it takes drastic measures to solve life's biggest problems, but that you can do almost anything with the support of a few close friends. One of KongPub's best novels yet, Blood of Fallen Crowns: Blade of Vengeance is a great read for anyone and just might change your life!
